TO-DAY'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

J. W. Branel—Pocket book found.
Haverly's Minstrel—Entertainment to-night.
Harry Taylor—Stationery, etc.
Thos. R. Phister—House for sale.
W. E. Wells—Business house for sale.

THE ruby roses that you see
Are not the work of man;
They're colored up to show us that
The frosty days have come.
The days, you know, as it is said,
The cranky, selfish sire,
While lying snug abed will make
The good wife build the fire.

The steamer Ohio will be down to-night in place of the Bonanza.

The directors of the Electric Light company will hold another meeting at the county clerk's office this evening.

A LARGE sow, and a well known depredator in the Second Ward, was killed by a street car on Friday. One more rubbed out.

ADAM GEIS, a lad about thirteen years of age, fell from the roof of the slaughter house on the Flemingsburg turnpike yesterday afternoon and broke both of his arms. He was badly bruised on the head also.

Our attention was called to the fact that there was a frost yesterday morning by seeing written in it the names of Mr. William Outten, late of Libby prison and Mr. Logan Cook, the scientific pile driver, both residents of East Maysville. There was a frost this morning also.

MESSRS. BALL, MITCHELL & Co. have arranged to build immediately a commodious machine shop as an addition to their foundry. It will be constructed of brick, thirty-three feet wide, sixty-six feet in depth and three stories high. The first story will be used as a machine shop, the second for manufacturing plows and the third for patterns. The walls of this building will be 18 inches thick and the windows large.

BELGER claimed within forty-eight hours of his death that the only statement made by him was contained in the confession published in our extra of July 17th.—New Republic.

Bulger could hardly have claimed any such thing, as he made after the time named, a lengthy statement to M. J. McCarthy and another to the editor of this paper. The attempt to throw discredit upon these statements by our esteemed contemporary is evidently made through misinformation. We make this explanation in the absence of Mr. Bulger who has been suddenly "removed."

Haverly's Minstrels.

This famous minstrel organization arrived yesterday and will fill their engagement at the Opera House this evening. This troupe as organized includes some of the most gifted material of the minstrel stage and renders a programme that is highly amusing and entertaining. The Columbus (O.) Journal says:

"Haverly's Minstrels opened last night. The house was crowded with a brilliant audience, many people being present who would patronize no minstrel entertainment other than that which Mr. Haverly's name, as manager, guarantees to be not only of the highest order of artistic excellence, but entirely free from anything that could be construed as offensive. Mr. Haverly's motto of everything new was indeed fully carried out. We will not attempt to individualize, but will simply say comedians, musicians, and artists in general eclipse anything in the line of minstrel shows that has ever traveled. They keep the entire audience in roars of laughter from beginning to end, and happier or more pleased gathering never left a theatre."

PERSONALS.

Miss Mattie Bateman, of this city, is visiting relatives in Minerva.

Miss Effie Smith, of Millersburg, is the guest of Mrs. Malissa Rosser.

Messrs. Homer Frederick and Mad Brown returned from Malden, W. Va., on Saturday evening.

Miss Maggie Shrofe, of Dover, is in Maysville, to assist in nursing the sick child of her brother Mr. James Shrofe.

Mrs. R. F. Means and daughters, Misses Emma and Lena, and Mrs. Alvin Means have returned from a visit to St. Louis.

Mr. William Willocks, who has acceptably filled a responsible position at Esculapia Springs this season, has returned home.

The following named young ladies who have been abroad visiting friends, have returned home: Misses Laura Shea, Kate Duley, Hannah Kane, Maggie Fitzgerald, Delia Hanley and Mary and Agnes O'Donnell.

Mr. John Brown, one of Central Kentucky's most charming beaux, has been summering at the La Rue House, Blue Lick Springs, and added very greatly to the pleasure of many guests by his presence, and was the envy of many of the less popular gentlemen. He will be at the Falmouth fair this week and we hope to see him with Gen. Abe Buford at our fair.

A Maysville Girl Abroad.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14, 1883.

Ed. Bulletin: We left Maysville on the 30th of August in company with M. George Rosser, and arrived at the Queen City about 12 o'clock and left at 8 p. m. for the city of Brotherly Love, and arrived there on the 31st ult., at 8 p. m. We had a very pleasant trip all the way through, traveling through the mountains, the scenery was grand. There is a place in the mountains that is called "Horse Shoe Curve," and passing around this bend it is a beautiful sight to look over and see the houses below. About 12 o'clock we arrived at Altoona. The trains stop here for refreshments and what we could see of the place from the cars it seemed to be a very pretty place. After leaving Altoona the next place the train stopped was at Cresson Springs. These springs seem to be a great summer resort for the people of Philadelphia, New York and Baltimore. The purity of the air and the mount in scenery surrounding it combine to make it one of the most popular summer resorts in the State. At these springs during the summer season about one thousand guest can be accommodated. A train leaving Cresson Springs the next place the train stopped was at Harrisburg, and what we could see of the city it is indeed a beautiful place. After leaving Harrisburg the stations along the road have beautiful flower gardens in front of them. Resting over Saturday we were very much refreshed. Sunday we attended Divine services at the Presbyterian Church located at the corner of 9th and Wharton streets, Rev. Dr. Williams is its pastor. In the afternoon we took a little stroll on South Broad street. This avenue ranks among the finest in the city. The houses on this street are built of brown and green stone, in the New York style. We went up Broad street as far as Ellsworth, up Ellsworth to 11th and south on 11th to the Moy mensesing prison. This prison is a very large building of stone with a high wall of the same material which surrounds the building. This building takes in the whole square. It is located at the corner of Reed and Eleventh streets, and then we proceeded down Eleventh to Dudley and thence home. On Monday, Sept. 4th, we went up as far as Eighth and Spring Garden streets then out Spring Garden to Twelfth. Next we visited the marble establishment of Van Gunden & Young, they have a very large establishment besides several branch works in the city. After leaving there we proceeded to John Wanamaker's great emporium, situated on the corner of Thirteenth and Market streets. This store takes up the whole square. Inside of this building everything can be bought, it is divided into different apartments. There is a fine parlor a toilet room, a lunch room and a play room for the children. This is one of the largest stores in the country and contains the greatest variety of goods. From there we went to the old Independence Hall, this is situated on Chestnut street, between Fifth and Sixth, and it takes in the whole square. In this building there are two halls, one is called the National Museum, where all of the Revolutionary relics are kept. In this hall there is a glass case containing the baby clothes of John Quincy Adams and also many other relics of great interest. In the other hall is the table and chair which was used when the Declaration of Independence was signed. Near the door leading out into the square hangs the old bell, the bell that proclaimed the joyful tidings throughout the land. After leaving this building we went through Independence Square. This square is laid off into fine stone walks, and the flowers and shrubbery added very much to its beauty, next we went to Washington Square. This is a very fine square laid off similar to Independence square.

I believe that I have now about all that is of any interest to you. To-morrow or next day we intend to visit the mint and Fairmount Park, then I will give you a full description of those places.

SALLIE G. DAUGHERTY.

MA. SCHUMAKER, an Ohio Prohibition candidate, employs no one in his mill who uses liquor or tobacco.

Sent to the Reform School.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 9.—James Carney, an eleven-year-old boy, was sent to the Reform school for one year by Judge Matheny, on complaint of the lad's mother, who charged him with larceny and said she could not control him. When sentence was passed on him the boy said he wanted to go to Pontiac and never come back. An older brother is serving out a sentence in the same institution.

Weeks on the Ocean.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—A telegram was received at the office of the Cronwell Steamship Company, from St. Johns, N. F., stating that the passengers and crew of the wrecked steamer Carrima had been saved, without exception, but that their baggage and the mails had been lost. The captain of the vessel remains at the scene of the disaster.

Indians in Court.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 9.—The United States District Court is in session here with Judge Cassino G. F. Foster, of Topeka, Kan., presiding. About 100 Chayenne and many Indians from other tribes are in attendance as witnesses. The docket is a large and important one. Most of the cases are from the Indian Territory. It is the largest criminal docket in the State.
